Company Overview

Accelerate Your Career at SpryPoint

We are SpryPoint – a high-growth software company shaking up the status quo in the utility industry. Many utility software solutions and providers are outdated and don't use the most advanced technology or provide the levels of service and expertise that utilities require.

We believe utility leaders should EXPECT MORE from their Customer Information Systems (CIS) and utility operational systems and providers.

Delivering more for utility organizations is our commitment and mission. It's your career-accelerating opportunity at SpryPoint.

About SpryPoint and our clients

SpryPoint serves the $1.8 billion utility market and the more than one million utility staff members serving cities, states, regions, and countries across the Americas.

Electric, water & sewer, and gas utilities – our clients – are the lifeblood of a community. These organizations provide essential services to ensure people can live comfortably and power businesses to help communities thrive.

Our team is architecting and delivering modern customer and operational software so utility companies can confidently meet their customers' changing expectations and run their operations more efficiently. This requires innovation and a diverse mix of software developers, architects, customer and sales leaders, and the finance and operations pros to make it happen.

A client once told me the utility industry deserved better software. After a decade with a competitor, I found SpryPoint, a company already delivering on that vision.
